Career Guidance through IQRA Society

CAREER AFTER RETIREMENT:- IQRA always believed that career planning is not "age-bound"; it is not that only the young students should plan their careers systematically and adults and elderly persons can afford to ignore them altogether. On the contrary, persons in all age groups should take career planning seriously at different stages of their careers and continue this exercise even after retirement and till the last breath of their lives. IQRA organized exclusive meets on careers for adults and for retired persons.

[illegible]

Golden Jubilee of Supreme Court And Golden Jubilee of Indian Republic

After India being constituted a "Sovereign Socialist Secular Democratic Republic", our judicial system have failed to secure justice, social economic and political to our citizens. One should know that Law must have social purpose and economic mission, which our existing laws do not fulfill and achieve the goal setout in the preamble of our constitution. It is worth to mention that the Right to property which is the cause of exploitation in the society has been put in the chapter or fundamental rights which has opened a chapter of conflict between the Directive Principles of State Policy and the right to property of a few, guaranteed in the fundamental rights. Today our society is based on inequitable social order.

HELLO! SIASAT VISION

HOLD ON !

[illegible] is a certain predictability [illegible] Bihar's slide into anarchy [illegible] it encompasses events that [illegible] normally be considered [illegible]. Mr Sadhu Yadav's [illegible] fall in the latter [illegible]. Mr Sadhu Yadav has a history of delinquency and [illegible]. His predilection for [illegible] in [illegible]. No doubt, by a [illegible] of invincibility [illegible] by his marriage ties to [illegible] supreme arbiter of Bihar's [illegible] Mr Laloo Prasad Yadav. But [illegible] those whose sensibilities have [illegible] cauterised, will have been [illegible] shock by the brazen manner [illegible] which Mr Sadhu Yadav abused, [illegible] threatened (at gunpoint) and [illegible] an IAS officer forcing him [illegible] countermand an order [illegible] transferring a mobile vehicle [illegible] who had been in one [illegible] for six years. The most [illegible] thing is that there is [illegible] reason to hope that the law [illegible] deal with Mr Sadhu Yadav [illegible]. But then he is a small [illegible] of the problem. What is more important is the systematic [illegible] of all institution that has enabled Mrs Laloo Yadav to remain [illegible] power and brought ruin to Bihar. The bureaucracy and the police have been bludgeoned in to submission. The effect of the [illegible] is there for [illegible] to see. Private armies and [illegible] militants conduct their bloody wars. While Director General of Police K.A Jacob treats [illegible] to self-evident theses on political economy. The complete collapse of routine law and order both in urban and rural areas is also near complete, as a string of incidents, including a raid on a women's hostel in the capital city of patna, have demonstrated. The political establishment in Bihar needs to understand that in the changed scenario following the creation of Jharkhand, the political culture of the parents State must change. Bihar faces for midable tasks of resources. There is hardly any industry in the State. It will now have to fall back on agriculture and agri-business to rebuild its ravaged economy. But it will clearly be impossible for Bihar to make any progress if this state of anarchy and de-institutionalisation continues. What the State needs, above all, is the restoration of normality and peace. And that cannot be brought about by a demoralized administration.

God to the fore at the Bush Inaugural

[illegible] George W Bush took over as the 43rd US president last week he liberally invoked God. If the chilly wind blowing on Inauguration Day deserved heavenly intervention to warm the cockles of the new president's heart, he also needed God's blessings to warm his way into the heart of a divided America.

[illegible] over his bitter [illegible] against Al Gore. "So help me, God" said Bush as soon as he took [illegible] and continued in the same vein in his inaugural speech. The numbers [illegible] all [illegible] did he refer to the Bible, the one he used for oath-taking the one on which George Washington had placed his hands in the first inauguration in 1789. In the course of the speech, Bush prayed to the Heavenly Father, invoked the Lord and remembered His love with humility. Appropriately, he rounded off his speech with "God bless you and God bless the United States of America." The tone for his address was set with the new custom to the White House urging the august gathering to bow their head and join him in a prayer his first act as president: "Heavenly Father, we bow our heads and thank You for Your love. Accept our thanks for the peace that yields this day and the shared faith that makes it [illegible]. Make us strong to do Your work, willing to heed and hear Your will, and write on our hearts these words: Use power to help people. One million IT jobs in 5 years : Naidu

HYDERABAD: Andhra Pradesh chief minister Nara Chandrababu Naidu says his government will create one million jobs in the information technology enabled services sector in the state in the next five years. The government proposes to take IT literacy to every nook and corner of the state and will involve all educational institutions, including those in the private sector, in its efforts. Naidu said while addressing a Global Leadership 2020 Program here. Mr Naidu said his government was working hard to develop Hyderabad as a knowledge hub for the entire world and also as a transit hub between Europe and [illegible]. Speaking of his "Vision 2020," he said the government was taking all steps to achieve the goals envisaged in the document prepared in association with consultants [illegible] to make the state the best in the country. He said when he became chief minister five years ago, he had a dream which appeared impossible. "Now, because of the hard work, vision, leadership and development of human resources, that dream is becoming a reality," he said. The chief minister said Andhra Pradesh had benefited immensely from the development of the IT sector. He said in 1995, Hyderabad had only 40 software firms and the number of such companies had now grown to 977. He said Andhra Pradesh was drawing inspiration from the success stories of China, Singapore, Malaysia and Dubai. Mr Naidu said apart from software, his government would promote biotechnology. He pointed out that Hyderabad had 20 corporate hospitals and 35 bulk drug companies. The city, he said, had all the advantages to accommodate world-class companies. "In another four or five years the city will be totally transformed," he claimed. The chief minister said the government had created an atmosphere conducive for foreign investments. During the recent Partnership Summit of the Confederation of Indian Industry here, the state received commitments for Rs 700 billion in investments, he said. The government would now appoint an escort executive for every important project to expedite the process of clearances from various government departments, he added. About 50 [illegible] executives from seven global companies in North America, Europe and Asia are participating in the weeklong Global Leadership 2020 Program, sponsored by the Tuck School of Business of the US and the CII. The course director of the program, Vijay Govindarajan, a professor in the Tuck School of Business, said the participants would study the problems and challenges.

Digital signature to stop e-mail forgery

MUNICH: Disturbing e-mail messages using a falsified sender's name is child's play. Simple Mail Transfer Protocol (SMTP), the standard used to deliver most e-mail, can easily be manipulated so that no trace of the actual sender exists. The protocol, at least in its original, most often used version, possesses no mechanism for checking whether the sender is actually entitled to send out a given e-mail message. This problem was recently brought to light by the Munich-based computer magazine PC-Welt. The SMTP security hole allows anyone with the technical know-how to use a publicly accessible SMTP server to send out e-mail messages under any name he or she wishes. One simply needs to make minor changes at the configuration of one's own e-mail program so that a false sender's address and server are listed. Some Internet Service Providers (ISPs) and providers of free mail accounts have implemented security measures to address this problem. But there remains any number of "back doors" into public SMTP servers on the Internet. In the end, the situation remains the same: a user cannot prevent some one else from sending out e-mail with his or her name, nor can he or the person being duped stop thinking an e-mail message came from a specific person when in fact it did not. [illegible] to the problem would be [illegible] documents will be [illegible]. Signing an e-mail message involves imprinting it with a digital "signature", so that the recipient can be certain that a message truly originated from the sender.
